TWO CITIES SURRENDER

Guantanamo and Caimanera Garri- sons Give Up

MANY PRISONERS AND LARGE QUANTITIES OF ARMS TAKEN

Santiago, Aug. 10—Special—On Monday the formal surrender of Guantanamo, Caimanara and the blockhouses in the vicinity was completed. The Spanish soldiers marched out, piling up 6,000 rifles and three million rounds of ammunition.

The Fight at Manila.

Washington, Aug. 10—Special—There is much satisfaction at the news from the Philippines today. The land engagement at Manila shows that the American forces are fully competent to deal with the enemy, and a decisive battle is expected there soon. The advantage gained, it is believed, will be followed up with vigor, and the Spanish position attacked from every quarter. It is expected that the entire island of Luzon, including Manila, will be in possession of the United States troops within two weeks, an event that will have an important bearing upon the pending peace negotiations.

Almost a Disaster.

Hong Kong, Aug. 10—Special—Fresh details of the first land battle at Manila show that at one time the Americans were perilously near a reverse, which was prevented by the timely arrival of reinforcements. The Spanish fire was surprisingly accurate. After the battle General Greene issued a general order congratulating the troops on their bravery and good work.

Joy Mingled With Woe.

Washington, Aug. 10—Special—News of further Cuban victories in the western provinces has reached the Cubans in Washington, one of the battles being the largest and most important ever fought in that part of the island. With the news of victory, however, comes a story of Cuban suffering from starvation and an appeal for further aid from the United States.

Sail For the Canaries.

Santiago, Aug. 10—Special—A thousand wounded Spanish soldiers, prisoners of the American army, sailed today on the Alicante for the Canaries. The wounded were given preference in embarking.

San Juan Will Soon Fall.

Washington, Aug. 10—Special—The war department expects to hear in a few days of an attack on San Juan, Porto Rico, followed promptly by the capitulation of the city.

Sailed For Porto Rico.

New York, Aug. 10—Special—The United States transport Chester sailed this morning for Porto Rico.

AMATEURS TRY TRAIN ROBBERY

Toughs at Jefferson Junction Have a Scrimmage with Train Men.
A party of toughs tried to raise a disturbance on the Chicago & North-western train at Jefferson Junction, last night. While the train was waiting for the passage of the Chicago express, and while Conductor Frank Brown had gone inside the depot to get his telegraphic orders, four men boarded the train and demanded money from one of the passengers. They were refused, whereupon they began to abuse and threaten the passenger. Assistant Superintendent Morison, who was on the train, sent for the conductor, and procuring a revolver from the express messenger, attempted to drive the men off. Several shots were fired, but none took effect. A general mix-up of train men and toughs then ensued, in which several hard blows were struck.
Finally two of the gang were captured and placed in the calaboose at the Junction, the others making their escape. One of them carried a large and ugly looking knife and was evidently prepared for desperate work. The other was unarmed. It is hoped that the remaining two will soon be apprehended.
The ruffians were not experts in holding up trains. This was evidently

JACK ASTOR, THE SPANIARDS' $75,000,000 TARGET.

Lieutenant Colonel John Jacob Astor is the richest man in the United States army. He is also a patriot and a man of nerve. He is at present with General Shafter and, although reared in luxury, is enduring the same hardships and is eating the same food that fall to the lot of the poorest private. He has gone to the front as an officer, it is true, but it is also true that his $75,000,000 body is just as liable to stop a Mauser bullet as the body of the private soldier. At the outbreak of the war Lieutenant Colonel Astor, as president of the Fort Wayne and Western railroad, offered free transportation to troops passing over his lines, gave his private yacht to the government and presented Uncle Sam with the Astor battery which was sent to Manila. Any man of means could have done this, but Astor went further and proved himself to be a rich American that Americans should be proud of. He was not only willing to give his property, but his life as well, for his country, if necessary. The accompanying picture, which is from the New York Herald, shows Lieutenant Colonel Astor watching the firing of a battery in the field near Santiago.

MERCHANTS AFTER THE DEAD BEATS

PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION TO BE FORMED.

Meeting Was Held Last Evening and Committee Was Appointed—Claim That They Have Lost Enough Money—Grocers Talked Over Their Coming Picnic.

Local merchants have declared war on all dead beats in this city and vicinity, and the first gun in the coming conflict was fired last evening. In the office of Hanley Bros., on South Jackson street, last evening a most interesting meeting was held, there being in attendance the leading grocery merchants of the city. W. F. Carle was chosen chairman and Charles A. Sanborn acted as secretary.

The nature of the meeting was to first talk over the coming annual picnic of the groccymen of the city. A committee consisting of Fred Wilbur, O. D. Bates, H. S. Johnson, Thomas Nolan and C. A. Thompson was chosen to make all necessary arrangements. Each year the public looks forward to the groccers' annual picnic as one of the outdoor events of the season and this promises to be no exception to the rule. The date agreed on is Tuesday, August 23, and the picnic will take place on that day providing that no change is made in the meantime.

As to the location there is little doubt but one of the up-river parks will be secured, if satisfactory arrangements can be made. Some of the groccers are in favor of going to some lake and spending the day.

Protection Against Dead Beats.

The groccers, wishing to kill two birds with one stone, brought up the matter of a protective association, which, they claim, would be a great benefit to the local merchants in general. The subject received hearty welcome, and W. F. Carle, O. B. Conrad and C. A. Sanborn were appointed as a committee to frame by-laws and make all necessary arrangements. The newly formed society will bear the name of the Janesville Merchants' Protective association.

"There is no use of us merchants putting off this matter of protection any longer," said an east side grocer this noon, "for there isn't a day that goes by but what we get the worst of it to the extent of a good many dollars. My books alone contain the names of at least a hundred people in this city who all belong on the doubtful list as far as their credit is regarded. When this new association gets in good running order we are going to brand all of this class of people and then they will find that we are not quite as easy as we look."

The majority of local merchants have no doubt lost heavily of late years as the result of dead beats, and if conducted along the proper lines the proposed plan will no doubt save many of the merchants a snug sum each year.

TOMORROW WILL TELL

Whether Or Not War Will Continue Depends On Spain

SHE MUST ACCEPT CONDITIONS WITHOUT RESERVATION

Washington, Aug. 10—Special—Absolute silence is maintained this morning by every member of the administration with regard to the status of the peace negotiations. No official statement can be extorted from anybody, and the cabinet members all declare they have agreed to remain mute until the secretary of state sees fit to make some public announcement. Your correspondent is able to state on authority that Spain has accepted in a general way the peace terms and not formally asked that any changes be made. The French minister did, however, present a "letter of instructions" asking certain assurances in advance and for certain constructions of terms so that there would be a full and complete understanding before the protocol was signed and an armistice declared.

The End Is Near.

Washington, Aug. 10—Special—While there is a feeling of disappointment here over Spain's reply to the American conditions of peace, there is yet a conviction that the end of the war is near. In their reply the Spanish ministers assume a good deal that was not even suggested in the president's note, but will be speedily set right. A supplemental note will probably be sent within a day or two explicitly repudiating the Spanish assumption that the debt of Cuba will be assumed by the United States, or that any measure of Spanish supremacy will be maintained in any of the territory over which this nation may assume control. The ministers will be given to understand that they are the suppliants, not the givers, of terms. There is a disposition to ignore the Spanish reply entirely as not meeting the conditions of the president's note, and to proceed with the war precisely as if no negotiations had taken place. Such a course would doubtless bring Spain to her knees in short order, and is favored by many.

A String to It.

Washington, Aug. 10—Special—"Acceptance with a string tied to it" is the greeting between official and unofficial diplomats this morning. President McKinley, it is reported, will ignore the new questions raised, and Secretary Day will prepare a protocol on the line of the president's original conditions. The Madrid government will be vouchsafed the explanation that the other points raised will come up properly and in due course before the peace commission, and the United States will make no agreement on them in advance. If Spain accepts the protocol as meeting her reply, and agrees to it, an armistice may then be proclaimed.

Tomorrow Will Tell.

Washington, Aug. 10—Special—Secretary Long, after visiting the white house this morning, when asked if peace would come today, replied: "I think not, but the matter will be settled one way or the other tomorrow." This bears out the existing impression that war will be renewed with increased vigor all along the line unless Spain promptly gives a more satisfactory reply. If not received by tomorrow night Sampson may be ordered across the Atlantic.

A Protocol Drawn Up.

Washington, Aug. 10—Special—Secretary Day and Ambassador Cambon have agreed upon a protocol and M. Cambon cabled to Madrid for permission to sign it officially. It is admitted at the state department that the terms laid down by the United States have not been changed. It is hoped M. Cambon will get the required authority to sign tonight or tomorrow. Secretary Day admits that peace commissioners will soon be appointed.

Must Agree at Once.

Washington, Aug. 10—Special—Ambassador Cambon, it is learned from official sources, has been entrusted to tell the Madrid government that the terms of the protocol as agreed upon must be accepted or rejected at once. It is in the nature of an ultimatum, and unless Cambon is instructed to agree all negotiations will fail.

AMERICANS WIN A BLOODLESS VICTORY

LIEUT. BOSTWICK WRITES OF GUAM'S CAPTURE

Officers Of the Port and City Had Not Heard of the Declaration of War—Governor of the Island and Other Dignitaries Made Prisoners of War.

Lieut. Frank Bostwick, of this city, who is on board the cruiser Charleston, recently arrived at Manila, with reinforcements for Admiral Dewey, writes an interesting letter to his father here in which he details his experience on route to the Philippines and details the capture of Guam, one of the Ladrone Islands, without casualties on either side. The letters are full of interest, and are given in their entirety:

United States Steamship Charleston, At Sea, June 10, 1898. Dear Father—Over a fortnight has elapsed since we left Honolulu and before another fortnight has elapsed we will in all probability have reached our journey's end and the first detachment of United States troops will have arrived at their destination. The three ships have kept with us ever since we left Honolulu. I feel awfully sorry for those poor boys, they are so crowded up and the weather is so insufferably hot, twenty-five hundred of them on the three ships. It is uncomfortable on the Charleston although we have steam blowers to keep a constant circulation of fresh air through the ship, and electric fans in our rooms to keep us cool, and the luxury of electric lights as well. Yet I am bathed in perspiration the greater part of the time, and as we have no ice machine on board a cool drink is something we can get only in imagination. Most modern cruisers have ice machines on board, but we have not.

In spite of my thorough dislike for hot weather and the discomfort I feel, my health has been excellent. I have had experience enough of this part of the world to know how to take care of myself so I do not anticipate any illness due to change of climate. As to the fortunes of war that is an unknown quantity and each must take his chance.

Tomorrow I may get my first experience of actual war. We are approaching the Ladrone Islands which are Spanish possessions. The largest island in the group is Guam on which the city of Agaña contains from five to seven thousand inhabitants. This city has fortifications, a detachment of Spanish troops, and possibly a gunboat or two in port. Our captain received sealed orders in Honolulu which he opened the day after we left port. Those orders directed him to go to Guam, attack and destroy the fortifications and capture or destroy any Spanish vessel which may be there.

We will reach there tomorrow and we have made every preparation for hot work. Though our crew are mostly green men, we have been drilling ever since we left San Francisco, and drilling hard. They are an unusually intelligent lot of men and have caught hold in a way which has surprised us. We had target practice day before yesterday with our eight and six inch guns. The accuracy of marksmanship astonished us, and we only hope that if occasion requires the use of the guns tomorrow the men may do so well.

As to what we are to expect tomorrow, there is so little known of Guam that we are utterly at a loss to conjecture.

Opinion among the officers is divided. Some think we will find some insignificant fortifications with an antiquated battery manned by perhaps half a hundred men, who will surrender at once without the necessity of firing a shot; others think that the place has been improved in the last few years and it is supplied with modern long range guns. In such a case we may have quite a scrap before we get through with it. But whatever may be in store you can rest assured that the Charleston will give a good account of herself and prove herself a worthy addition to Dewey's fleet.

My duties probably give me more latitude of movement than any other officer on the ship. The captain's place is on the bridge to direct the movements of the ship and with him are the first lieutenant who directs the firing of the guns and the navigator who courses the ship and sees that she is kept clear of rocks or shoals; the other watch officers are with their guns directing the firing in accordance with the orders received from the first lieutenant; the engineer officers are in the engine room, the doctors are in the sick bay to care for the wounded, the marine officer also has a division of guns to look after and the paymaster assists me in the powder division.

My duties, as chief of the powder division which supplies the ammunition, takes me forward and aft on the spar deck, berth deck and even down into the magazines and shell rooms if anything goes wrong. I have to see that all the guns have an ample or rather a constant supply of ammunition and at the same time that ammunition does not accumulate on deck, so I have to be here, there and everywhere.

Everybody on board has been impatiently awaiting our arrival at Guam. We should get there shortly before daylight.

United States Steamship Charleston, At Sea, June 23, 1898.—We have met the enemy and they are ours. They are now on board the Sydney as prisoners of war and the fleet is again under way for Manila, which place we should reach by the 30th if good weather continues. Our prisoners of war, above referred to, are the governor of the territory, who is lieutenant-colonel in the Spanish army; his secretary, a captain of a port, a lieutenant-commander in the Spanish navy; two lieutenants of the Spanish naval infantry; a surgeon of the Spanish army, and fifty-four non-commissioned officers and privates, Spanish naval infantry. The spoils of war consist of their swords, guns, and a small amount of ammunition.

We have realized my expectations that nothing would be found at Guam to require more than a display of force. But I suppose you would like to have the story from the beginning as it will be a leaf in the history of our war with Spain.

Not knowing what to expect, we of course made every preparation for attack and defense, and on the evening before our arrival the ship was cleared for action. We sighted the island of Guam at daylight. At half past five the officers were called, the call to "general quarters" was sounded and all the guns were loaded. Then all hands went to breakfast.

Meantime the ship had rounded the north point of the island and was standing down the west shore. We first looked into the bay of Agaña to see if there might be a gunboat lying around loose. Not finding any we stood on for the principal harbor, San Luis d'Apra, a few miles further south. As the harbor opened out we espied a white brigantine which we hoped would prove to be a Spaniard, but which turned out to be Japanese.

Approaching the harbor entrance all hands were called to quarters again, and the men stood by their guns, hoping that there would soon be something to fire at. The entrance to the harbor is very narrow, with a coral reef on the port hand and a high bluff to the starboard. The chart indicated that this bluff was fortified but, owing to its height and the tropical growth which covered it, we could not make out what might be there, and anyway it was necessary to chance it. Had there been anything there they would have made it warm for us for a short time, as our decks were entirely exposed, while owing to our close proximity to the bluff, our guns were useless. However, nothing transpired, and we were soon past the doubtful point. Getting clear in we discovered a small fortified islet about a mile ahead. We fired half a dozen shots at it with our six-pounders, knocking up bricks and mortar, but meeting with no response. Then we decided to come to anchor.

Shortly after anchoring, a boat pulled out from the beach and came alongside with several people, among them the aforesaid captain of the port, and the army surgeon, who was the health officer of the port. They were received at the gangway and asked into the cabin, where they were informed that they were prisoners of war. The announcement took them flat aback, as they did not know of the existence of war between the two countries. They only got four mails a year, by way of Manila, and when their last mail left, war had not been declared. They had heard of the Maine disaster. Our captain told them he would release them on parole that they might go back and inform the governor of the territory that he would be expected to surrender at once himself, his troops and his territory.

The next morning, the governor, not having put in an appearance, a landing force was organized, consisting of our marine guard and Companies A and D, of the Oregon Volunteers. A committee of two of our officers was sent in to deliver the ultimatum to the governor, the landing party, filling fifteen boats, ready to follow if necessary. The governor was given thirty minutes in which to make up his mind. It took him just twenty-nine minutes to decide and write out a surrender. The committee then returned accompanied by the governor, his secretary, the captain of the port, and the surgeon. The landing party, which had embarked, was ordered back.

In the afternoon our guard was sent in to receive and bring off the two remaining officers and the troops. The soldiers were on the beach. Our guard formed line ashore from them and then one by one they delivered up their arms. The arms having been stowed in the boats the soldiers were ordered to embark. This they did not expect and many of them begged to be allowed to go and see their families. This, of course, could not be permitted, so they were compelled to enter the boats. It was after dark when they came alongside. As soon as the arms and ammunition were brought on board, the soldiers and all the officers were sent to the "Sidney."

I felt very sorry for those poor fellows, torn away so suddenly and unexpectedly, two of the officers and many of the men leaving families behind and not knowing when they will ever see them again.

On the afternoon of the day of the surrender we hoisted the American flag over the island fortress and saluted it with twenty-one guns and the cheers of upwards of three thousand good Americans on the Charleston and transports. The United States thus became possessors of the Ladrone Islands. It was a fitting finish to the bloodless battle of Guam.

If we retain the Philippines, the Ladrone Islands must be ours also. The island of Guam will be an excellent place for a coaling station and a stepping stone from Honolulu to Manila. Honolulu must be ours also. You see I have changed my mind regarding the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands since I addressed the Janesville Twilight club. But since then circumstances have changed. Who could have believed then that the United States would in six months be at war? If the acquisition of foreign territory is to be our future policy, then I say with the old lady in "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," "Git while you are a giter."

As to our country adopting such a policy, I am in two minds. Personally I should be pleased because it must be of distinct benefit to the many, yet I hate to see the United States departing from its old traditional policy of "you keep in your hemisphere and we will keep in ours."

Manila, July 1.—We arrived here last evening safely with our transports, and found all quiet in the fleet, which is anchored off Cavite. We have quite a respectable fleet of United States vessels—the Olympia, Charleston, Baltimore, Raleigh, Boston, Concord, Petrel, Zafiro, Nautilus, Pekin, Australia, Sydney, McCullough, Olinia and Layte. The two latter were captured from the Spanish.

We are expecting the Monterey with more transports in about ten days. Then I would not be surprised if we made a demonstration against Manila.

I must close this now in order to be ready for the mail. Give my love to all the family and keep a large share for yourself. Always your devoted son, FRANK.

REV. S. E. PIERCE PASTOR OF A MILWAUKEE CHURCH

School Census Of the Cream City Indicates a Population of 280,914—Babcock and Stewart Renominated For Congress—T. E. Ryan May Be Democratic Nominee For Governor.

Rev. S. E. Pierce, of Minneapolis, has accepted a call to the Tabernacle Baptist church of Milwaukee, and will assume the active duties of the pastorate as soon as he can leave Minneapolis. Mr. Pierce has preached twice in the Tabernacle church, the first and second Sundays in July, and while not a pulpit orator, it is said by members of the Tabernacle congregation, he is a man of scholarly attainments and a deep thinker. His sermons so impressed the congregation that they extended the call to him, and yesterday afternoon E. W. Drake, chairman of the pulpit committee, received word of his acceptance.

Milwaukee's School Census.

There were 93,638 children of school age in the city of Milwaukee last year. Of these 46,411 were boys and 47,227 girls. These figures were shown in the annual report of the school census made by Secretary Legler at last night's meeting of the school board. Last year's census showed 92,174 children of school age in the city, making the increase this year 1,464. The generally accepted ratio of school children to the whole population is one to three. Making an estimate on this basis the school census this year shows that Milwaukee now has 280,914 inhabitants.

Corner Stone Laid

Dodgeville, Wis., Aug. 10.—The corner stone of St. Joseph's Catholic church was laid yesterday in the presence of a large crowd. The sermon was preached by Father John E. Babcock and Stewart Renominated

Spring Green, Wis., Aug. 10.—With only the slightest suggestion of the opposition which was so bitterly displayed in the contest for delegates to the convention Joseph W. Babcock was renominated by the Third district republican convention as its candidate for congress yesterday.

Wausau, Wis., Aug. 10.—Congressman Stewart was renominated by the republican convention of the Ninth congressional district by the rising vote of the delegates.

Wants the Democratic Nomination.

The e is no question as to whether T. E. Ryan of Waukesha, will be a candidate before the democratic state convention for the nomination for governor. He was in Milwaukee yesterday, and when asked by a reporter whether he was in the field admitted that he would do what he could to secure the nomination. He talked with friends at the Plankinton house as to his prospects before the convention, and when asked for an estimate of his chances he said:

"Of course, I know nothing as to my chances in the state outside of my own county. Waukesha county would send a solid delegation to the convention for me. I have not looked into the situation fully and know absolutely nothing as to the chances of any candidate."

Mr. Ryan would not talk as to whether he would accept the Chicago platform or what kind of a platform he would consent to run on, stating that it would be premature. He left on an early train for Waukesha.

LYING SICK AT JACKSONVILLE

Private Morton Is In a Dangerous Condition From Fever

Members of the Morton family who reside near Johnston Center, were in the city yesterday trying to get a telegram through to the field hospital at Jacksonville, where their son is now confined, being reported dangerously ill with fever.

Private Morton enlisted in the local company prior to their leaving this city, and from all accounts he has made an excellent soldier. Of late he has been so ill that it was impossible for him to write home, and he has required the close attention of the physicians. Relatives are now planning on paying him a visit.

BASEBALL REPORT.

Games Played Yesterday in the Various Leagues.

Boston arrested the progress of the Ewinglites upon their own stamping grounds yesterday and fairly made the Reds like it from under the deep coat of well-placed whitewash. Scores:

Effort to Adjust the Strike.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 10.—The secretary of the state of arbitration, Joseph K. Bishop, is here to adjust the wire workers' strike. He has consulted with officials and men, and the former refuse absolutely to consider the subject of arbitration. The powers of the state board of arbitration are limited unless both parties are willing to submit their cause, in which case its acts become binding. Where only one side agrees to call upon the board it has the power to subpoena any witnesses it may desire and then formulate a report, setting forth which side, in its opinion, is guilty of injustice.

Skaguay May Be in Ruins.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 10.—The steamer Farallon arrived at Vancouver Tuesday. On Thursday night she left Skaguay, and at that time Capt. Roberts says Skaguay was threatened with destruction by fire. Fifteen or twenty houses were in flames as the steamer cast off her ropes, and the last report he received was that an inadequate fire brigade was attempting to keep the flames from the sheds where the railway company had dynamite stored. This seemed to him impossible, as the fire was rapidly spreading. The people were panic-stricken, and the forests surrounding the town were all ablaze.

Secretary Day's Successor.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Already the successor of Secretary Day is being considered, and the names of Postmaster General Smith, Ambassador Hay, and Attorney General Griggs are being discussed. From those who are close to the president, it is learned that he is undecided whether the ambassador to the Court of St. James will be recalled or the postmaster general promoted.

Miners Preparing to Fight.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 10.—At a conference of miners' officials Tuesday steps were taken to open the fight against the operators who are not complying with the provisions of the Chicago agreement. A call was issued for a convention in Monongahela City Saturday. The bulk of the fighting will be done along the Monongahela river in the third pool.

To Meet in September.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Senator Kyle of South Dakota called on President McKinley Tuesday and discussed plans of the new non-partisan industrial commission. The president said the commission would be called together in the middle of September. The personnel of the commission is practically determined and will be announced when the call for the meeting is made.

Sternberg Answers Shafter.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Surgeon General Sternberg has written a sharp reply to Gen. Shafter's statements and shows that medical supplies sufficient for twenty regiments for six months were sent to Cuba. He claims that the fault was at Santiago, where the stores were not unloaded when needed by the sick and wounded soldiers.

UNITED STATES KEEPS PEACE.

Berlin Paper Thinks It Will Prevent Anglo-Russian Conflict.

Berlin, Aug. 10.—The Post, which is known as "the ambassadors' organ," says it is convinced that the Anglo-Russian cloud will pass, as many others have previously done.

This prospect, it adds, is in nowise altered by the good will of American newspapers for their new ally or the accentuation of the identity of American and British interests in the far East.

Russia's relations with the United States are so cordial that the conviction soon gained ground that the prevention of an Anglo-Russian conflict was a matter in which the United States was profoundly interested.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

Headquarters Republican State Central Committee, Milwaukee, June 15.
To the Republican Electors of Wisconsin:
By direction of the State Central Committee, a convention of the republican electors of the state of Wisconsin will be held in the city of Milwaukee on Wednesday, the 17th day of August, 1898, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of nominating a republican state ticket to be voted for at the general election in November next, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention.

The republican electors of Wisconsin are cordially invited to unite under this call in sending delegates to said state convention.

In accordance with resolution recommended by the state convention and formally adopted by the State Central Committee, in electing delegates to the state convention, no county having more than one assembly district, except Milwaukee county, the unit basis shall be the assembly district, and in such counties delegates shall be elected by assembly district conventions, and the names of the delegates so elected shall be certified to the State Central Committee by the assembly district secretary thereof; in all other cases delegates shall be elected by county conventions.

Under the present basis of representation the several assembly districts in the state are entitled to one delegate for every two hundred and fifty (250) republican votes, or major part thereof, cast at the last preceding presidential election.

Special attention is hereby called to the fact that all conventions to elect delegates to the state convention must be called on a notice of not less than four weeks; all town or ward caucuses as primaries to state convention on a notice of not less than ten days, and that notice of the meeting of such convention or caucus shall be given in the usual manner.

As the State Central Committee acts as the Committee on Credentials, it is requested that credentials of delegates elected, duly certified to by chairman and secretary of county or assembly district conventions, be forwarded to the secretary of the Republican State Central Committee headquarters in Milwaukee, immediately upon their election; in every case giving the names in full and positive address.

EDWIN D. COE, Chairman.

JOHN M. EWING, Secretary.

Rock county will be entitled to 33 delegates, distributed among the assembly districts as follows: First district, 9; Second district, 11; Third district, 13.

HEALTH OF THE SOLDIERS.

Dispatches from Monroe say that Surgeon General F. W. Byers, who has been inspecting the camps of Wisconsin soldiers, has arrived home, and expects to make his report to Gov. Scofield in a few days. He seems to be very well satisfied with what he saw, or at least doesn't make anything in the contrary known. He first went to Jacksonville where he found a larger amount of sickness than he expected, but the condition was not as serious as it had been represented to be. He is satisfied that the typhoid fever that the soldiers have is not as severe as it is in the north. In most of the cases there is some diphtheria, and there is much malaria connected with it, and in his opinion a better name for it would be typhoid-malaria.

The number of men in the hospital and those who are recovering from the so-called typhoid fever is far in excess of what he imagined there would be. While some of the cases prove fatal, the sickness is less serious than people in the north may be led to believe. The camp of the First regiment had been occupied continuously for three months. It was satisfactory at the first but it had become permeated with the refuse from the kitchen, which made it unhealthy. The camp was flat, but the new camp is on high ground and a very desirable location. The drainage is good, and he knows of no reason why the men should not improve in health. The officers and all the men are highly pleased with the place. The food that has been furnished by the government has been faulty to some extent, owing to the poorly organized commissary department, but the general condition is good. At the present time there is no dangerous sickness in the regiment. He has little to say regarding the field hospitals, more than that they are fairly well conducted.

The San Francisco Bulletin points out the fact that there has been considerable advance in the price of good clothing since the Dingley tariff went into effect. There is no reason why there should be unless it is that the greater demand for labor in consequence of the improvement in business may have caused a slight rise in the rate of wages. Under the Dingley tariff cloth is being spun and made into garments of the grades that under the Wilson tariff were imported.

Milwaukee Sentinel.—Another thing that made it pleasant for the Wisconsin soldiers in Ponce was the fact that a dollar of Uncle Sam's money was worth two dollars in Spanish silver coin, even to a Spaniard.

Oshkosh will have a Municipal League. This does not necessarily mean that Oshkosh needs such an organization, but rather that she has heard that some other town had one.

Grover Cleveland has started a poultry farm. This simply goes to confirm the general belief that Grover has "had a hen on" for some time past.

Captain Sigbee is to have command of the Texas, the sister ship of the ill-fated Maine.

The Ant Whom We Admire.

When the schooner Golden Sheaf arrived in port lately, with a cargo of logwood, everybody on board—from captain down to cook—rushed frantically ashore, as though pursued by some unseen enemy. As a matter of fact, the vessel was literally swarming with hordes of Jamaica ants, which practically captured the vessel and held it in possession. The little pests had invaded the lockers and dived headlong into the sugar barrels. After finishing the contents of those, they ate everything before them, until it was feared that the stock of provisions on board would run short. There was a cessation from their attacks on one day only, when the vessel was caught in a hurricane, which flooded everything below. It was supposed that the intruders had all been drowned; but after the storm had cleared away they began their attacks with renewed energy. Captain Chandler, who commands the vessel, stated that the ants were in all parts of the vessel, and that in his experience at sea he had never before met an attack like the now-commenced waged against him.

Trials of an "Animal Artist."

Meredith Nugent contributes to the St. Nicholas "Leaves from the Sketch Book on an 'Animal Artist.'" Mr. Nugent says: When one commences to sketch a cow that animal invariably takes her departure, the sleeping lions at Central Park always wake up after a few strokes of the pencil, and even the sluggish snail becomes imbued with an amazing degree of swiftness if an attempt is made to sketch him. At least, this is the way it seems to the "animal artist." A Baltimore oriole acquaintance of mine used repeatedly to come to the edge of the cardboard on which I was drawing, and eye the rapidly moving pen with the greatest interest; but if I attempted to sketch him he would fly away immediately. True, I was once fortunate enough to catch the bright bird at his bath, when he was so thoroughly engaged in splashing water over everything as to be totally unaware of my presence. "An impression" made on that occasion is shown on the following page. Some animals are comparatively easy to sketch, and some very difficult. The great elephant belongs to this latter class. He always appears to be in a state of perpetual motion.

A Royal Record Saved Him.

New York Times: According to the story of Mesrob Mamovlian, who was arraigned before Justice Newburger, in general sessions, Tuesday on a charge of assault, he was formerly "royal painter artist" to the sultan of Turkey. Losing his royal job, he came to New York, and lived in humble fashion over the little restaurant of Hartman Ohannessian, a fellow-country man, at 154 East Twenty-seventh street. He got into a dispute with Ohannessian, and hit him in the eye with a coffee pot. Ohannessian repented of causing the arrest of such a dignitary as the ex-artist, and wrote a letter to the judge, which stated that he and Mamovlian had been very nervous on the day of the assault, and that if Mamovlian had not thought he was going to strike him first he would never have struck him with the coffee pot. He wrote that he could not appear against his friend. Mamovlian prostrated himself before the judge when brought into court, and addressed him as his royal highness. The judge discharged the prisoner.

A Bicycle Shower Bath.

A decided novelty has recently been brought out by a French bicycle manufacturer, and has been exhibited by him at a cycle show in Paris. It is termed, according to invention, a velo douche, and is an eminently practical device for combining exercise with the morning ablutions. It consists of a shallow tub, to which is secured a framework carrying a bicycle saddle, a handle bar, pedals, sprocket wheels and chain. The resemblance to a bicycle goes no farther. The suction pipe of the pump ends near the bottom of the tub, and the discharge pipe is curved and ends in the sprinkler arrangement common to all shower baths. A cork half way up the discharge pipe permits of the water being turned on to the sprinkler or through the hose and nozzle, depending on whether a bath is desired or not. When the rider has exercised sufficiently he can reach backward and turn the cork so as to let the water pass upwards and out of the sprinkler. The harder he pedals, the larger the stream. The tub can be divided into two compartments, one containing hot water, and the cold and hot douche may then be used at will.

The Final Test.

A little Pennsylvania was sitting on the floor playing with his blocks. Presently he looked up at his mother and asked: "Ma, can God see everything?" "Everything, Harry." He turned to his blocks again, but evidently did not drop the subject from his thoughts, for he soon asked: "Can he see the back of his own neck?"—Current Literature.

HAWKINS RETURNS WITH ALASKAN GOLD

BOWER CITY RESIDENT HAS MADE HIS FORTUNE

Has Been In the Klondike Region For Many Months Past—Was a Carpenter By Trade When Living Here—Will Be In Janesville In a Few Days.

With a fortune safely tucked away in his inside pocket, Morris Hawkins, a former Janesville resident, is now on his way home from the Klondike. One year's residence in the frozen land of gold has made him rich, and now he returns to spend a few months in a civilized community.

Mrs. A. H. Barnes, who resides at 15 Linden avenue, is a sister to the fortunate miner, who left Janesville not many months ago a laboring man, of only moderate means.

Hawkins is said to be bringing home in the neighborhood of $15,000 in gold dust, which he will exchange for cash in California before he takes up his journey to Wisconsin. Just when he is due to arrive in this city is not known, but local relatives expect him within the next few days.

Writes of the Country

In a letter received by Mrs. Barnes bearing the postmark of Dawson City, Hawkins gives many interesting facts regarding that far away country. Soon after leaving the United States they found themselves in the midst of a land where ice and snow were on all sides as far as the naked eye could span. Sawmills were then great paying property in the lumber regions of Alaska, and into this business Hawkins and his party drifted, and for a time it paid them well. Then they devoted their time to prospecting, and it was not long before they struck the shining metal in paying quantities. Two of the party with Hawkins purchased a mine, and it soon developed into a good thing.

The Cold Not Severe

In but a short space of time they took from the earth $17,000 in gold. During last winter Mr. Hawkins says that at only one time was the cold so severe as to freeze within his cabin, at no time was it so severe that it stopped work in the mines.

The nights, he says, are long and dreary but so light is it at all times that the laborers in the mills work without the aid of lamps. In his last letter he stated that he would leave Alaska about July 1 and if nothing unforeseen happened would be in Janesville in about six weeks.

Will Go Back Again

Mr. Hawkins will not make Janesville his future home, or at least he does not intend to for some time to come. His visit here will last till spring, when he intends to return to look after his mining interests which he is now leaving behind. Mr. Barnes is now thinking seriously of accompanying him on his return trip.

When a resident of this city Hawkins worked for several of the local carpenter contractors, and was a good man at the trade. Before the Klondike gold report reached this country, he left Janesville for the west, and there joined a party bound for Alaska in search of gold. His timely arrival in that country before the rush no doubt was the cause of his getting a good start.

TESTIFY TO THEIR ESTEEM

Ladies of St. Mary's Church Present a Testimonial to Father Roche

Last evening the members of the Married Ladies' Sodality of St. Mary's church presented the retiring pastor of the church, Rev. R. J. Roche with a handsome solid gold chalice and paten as a testimonial of their regard. Mrs. John Baker who was the first prefect or president of the sodality, made the presentation speech in a very pleasing manner. Father Roche was taken completely by surprise, but expressed his thanks as well as his emotions would permit.

Later in the evening the six altar boys of St. Mary's church presented the departing pastor with a sick call set, used in carrying communion to the sick. The altar boys are John Daly, Walter Seltz, Bert Mahoney, Joe Laskowski, Joe O'Grady Goodheart O'Grady and John Ward. Master John Daly made the presentation speech to which Father Roche responded in feeling terms.

Father Roche has put the affairs of St. Mary's church in order, and will turn over the books of the parish to one of the officers of the church today. Tomorrow he will take his departure for Milwaukee. His successor, Rev. Father Goebel will probably arrive here tomorrow and will resume his new duties at once.

REV. SABIN HALSEY TAKES THE STAND

TESTIFIES IN HIS OWN BEHALF THIS AFTERNOON

Jury Is Composed of Prominent Divines—Day Has Been Taken Up With Evidence On Part Of The Defense—Examination Will Be Resumed Tomorrow.

Before a jury composed of prominent divines, Rev. Sabin Halsey, former pastor of the Court Street Methodist church in this city, took the stand this afternoon, and in a clear tone of voice testified in his own behalf, stoutly denying the charge that he was intoxicated when arrested in Racine. In the Sunday school rooms of the First M. E. church on South Jackson street this interesting investigation is taking place.

When court opened this morning, all personally interested in the case were on hand. Newspaper men and the general public were the recipients of special invitations which notified them, in as few words as possible, to make themselves scarce.

The Trial Jury.

When court opened the following jury composed entirely of clergymen, took their seats: W. P. Leek, Clinton, J. J. Garvin, Lake Geneva; E. C. Potter, Sharon; W. W. Woodside, Elkhorn; F. B. Sherwin, Milton; E. Perry, Whitewater; and F. C. Brayton, Palmyra.

Presiding Elder Pease occupied the judge's stand, and E. E. Peck acted as court stenographer. The church was ably represented, having for counsel, Rev. O. E. Carpenter, of Stoughton, and Rev. G. W. White, of Lake Mills. Rev. S. Lugg, of Menasha and Rev. T. D. Peake, of Beloit, ably represented Rev. Mr. Halsey.

Yesterday's Testimony

The work accomplished yesterday was mostly in the nature of reading of the testimony of the different witnesses as it was given in Racine. The evidence for the prosecution includes the statements of Officer Schumacher who arrested the preacher, Deputy Sheriff Mutter, who locked him up and Chief of Police Johnson, who interviewed him.

In spite of the story told by these people Mr. Halsey's friends are doing their best to obtain evidence that he was sick at the time, and that his malady might have been confounded with drunkenness.

Presiding Elder Pease stated this noon that a verdict would in all probability not be rendered before tomorrow.

Deceased was born November 13, 1850 in Rock county and has resided there ever since. She was loved and esteemed by all and her death will be mourned by a large circle of friends. Funeral services will be held from the home Friday at 2 o'clock, the interment to be in this city in Oak Hill cemetery.

IF LOVE WERE OTHER THAN PERFECT.

If love were other than a perfect thing,
Love were no gain, but only all a grief,
And better were to check its blossoming
Ere one poor heart could struggle into life;
To let it in the spring,
If love were other than a perfect thing.

If love were other than most sweet of all,
Love were the bitterest gift of bitter fate,
And better were to spare beyond recall
Its music ere more poisons than balm
Its sweetness were but gall,
If love were other than most sweet of all.

If love were other than the love of you,
Love were a poverty, and nothing worth,
And all the task that memory had to do
Would be to loathe the hour that gave it birth;
Love were not sweet nor true
If love were other than the love of you.

But love is love, and you are you, and I,
And I that dare to love you with a will,
Knowing that love is perfect, true and high,
And always greater than its greatest ill;
Knowing it cannot die,
Since love is love of you, and I am I.

A VILLAGE ROMANCE.

There could be no doubt about it. Molly had been a different girl since she and John Lock had been "keeping company." At least this was what the village gossips declared, and surely no one would have the temerity to contradict authorities so well informed. And the village gossips had spoken truth this time. Molly, the pride of all Longville, the pretty country girl whom nature had endowed with a superb abundance of animal spirits; Molly, the fascinating coquette, had been subdued, and John Lock, the village carpenter's son, had conquered. At least that was what all Longville thought.

John in himself, although boasting no ancient lineage, was, as the laborers termed him, "a cut above the ordinary run." Somehow without having had any educational advantages he had developed a strong love for books, and when the day's work in the little carpenter's shop was done he would go out into the soft summer eve, and a brisk walk over the hills would bring him to the rugged cliffs by the sea. Here he would throw himself down, and as long as the red shoots of the setting sun gave light over the land he would read with rapturous intent, and when at last it had disappeared in a blaze of color in an opalescent sea he would watch the stars and talk longly of their distances and of what constellations they formed part.

The good people of Longville could never quite understand John. He would astound them with his enthusiastic descriptions of fleeting clouds, would bid them hear a poem in the constant roaring of the sea and tell them that there were new worlds, of which they knew nothing, in pictures and books. But John was genial and kind hearted, and so, although his personality ended definite analysis by them, they yet recognized him as the village favorite for the humbler and maybe more useful qualities of good fellowship and unselfish courage.

It was little wonder that when Molly and John commenced "keeping company" that Longville should talk. Never two persons had less in common, so far as temperament and tastes were concerned, and yet somehow, for a reason which even old Mrs. Knight, who had seen two generations of village courtships, could not explain, these two people of opposite dispositions were destined to share life's storm and sunshine together.

How they came to be engaged I cannot say. There was a meeting of the two, when the usual cheery "Good night, John," and "Good night, Molly," ceased to have the old prosaic significance. The untamed, restless little heart of Molly beat convulsively, and the roses on her cheeks burned a deeper hue when that evening John stopped her and insisted on her talking with him. I was not there, so that of what was said I am unaware.

This much, however, all Longville soon knew—that John Lock and Molly Lane had become sweethearts. How the good wives enjoyed standing at the doorway of their cottages and discussing the probabilities of a village wedding and what it involved! These good souls would have made the devils, sinuous track of these two lives much straighter and more direct than it was fated to be.

No event is too wonderful to become familiarized with, and so it was that the wonder ceased, and Molly and John for months pursued their pleasant way, dreaming the old love dreams common to youth since the world began. It was true that sometimes John imagined, "his Molly" was restless and scarcely contented. She seemed to sigh for new opportunities of conquest. The old spirit, which he thought dead, reared its head again and gave warning of, although it never actually broke out in, open rebellion. Then John would be troubled and would search his generous, simple heart in the hope of discovering some excuse for the discontent which only too obviously was smoldering in his sweetheart's mind.

One week in the midsummer of the following year Squire Hurst's only son came of age, and the event was celebrated with great eclat by the whole of the inhabitants of the village. The lovely old park surrounding the hall was thrown open, and numerous were the alfresco attractions provided to amuse the assembled guests. The sports of the day terminated with a grand villagers' ball, at which the heir to Longville Hall himself was present. There had been many a rumor that Harry Hurst had been "a gay young spark" in his time, but tonight all ugly memories were lost in the pleasure and excitement of his presence among the common folk at the ball.

All seemed happy save one, and that was John. In spite of his best attempts to suppress it a great pain was at his heart—almost as severe as a physical one—as he saw his Molly being claimed for dance after dance by the squire's son. How she seemed to enjoy the distinction, too, as with flushed cheeks she was waltzed around in a whirl of excitement!

And when the evening's amusements had ended Molly seemed cross when John pushed his way to the front and claimed his right of seeing her from the park to her father's cottage gate. She was irritable and moody. John had never known her so before, and it was with a heavy, aching heart that he kissed her good night. Nor was the unhappiness of his mind diminished when for several nights after she refused to take her customary walk with him.

At length the climax came, and one evening, after he had succeeded in inducing her to come with him over the hills, he received the dread ultimatum which he had almost expected would fall. Molly was frank. She avowed shyly that she did not and could not love him and then, with a pretty, disdainful toss of the head, declared that she would be glad if he did not worry her any more. John took the blow quietly, but the agony of soul he suffered no one but himself knew.

Then grave whispers and nods and winks passed around from house to house in the village. There were talks in hushed breath of secret meetings at night, and of Molly and the young squire being seen together. And John would be questioned, but he never answered. His sorrow was for himself alone—so he would tell himself—it could not be shared by the curious. It was his wont to go and sit by the sea, and there find a sort of melancholy satisfaction in the low wail of the billows as they broke in at the foot of the cliffs. As for Molly, after one final attempt to reclaim her, John avoided her. To have met her would have increased the inconvenience of both, and in his case would have opened afresh the wounds, but hardly healed. In the months that followed the whispers took an uglier form, and Longville delighted its soul at last in a village scandal.

And so Molly went away and left her poor old father sorrowing.

There was only one who ever defended the fair name of Molly when it was made a byword with the young roughs of the place, who loafed outside the village inn or at the roadsides. John was never known to have become so incensed as when one evening in his hearing one of these thoughtless youths mentioned inappropriately Molly's name and coupled it with a foul epithet. Then he thrashed the young lout within an inch of his life.

After awhile the sad incident was forgotten—at least until Molly's return to her home again. Then trouble began anew. She was very much altered, and the roses had faded from her cheeks. In tearful sorrow she would sit and nurse her baby all day long.

The last act in the tragedy came when one day Molly's father received a note from the hall. The steward brought it round, and as Molly's father was growing old and feeble and his sight waning the steward read the note aloud. It was a formally worded epistle giving the poor, old, sorrow stricken parent a month's notice because the squire felt that it was "not conducive to the morals of the village that people of Molly's stamp should be harbored" in the midst of his cottagers. Needless to say Molly's father was almost broken hearted at the thought of leaving the house he had occupied for so long, while as for Molly herself her distress was too piteous for words.

One morning not long after John stepped down the old roadway, his face haggard, but the expression firm, resolute and determined. He presented himself at the door of Molly's cottage and was admitted. It was only a look they exchanged, and the floodgates were opened again, and, having sobbed on his shoulder awhile, Molly gradually recovered herself, while John, with a choking sensation in the throat which he tried in vain to keep down, avowed: "I have always waited for you, Molly. I knew you would come back to me."

"But I can't. You forget that is his," and she pointed in her anguish to the cot wherein the babe was slumbering peacefully.

John didn't turn his head to look, but he took Molly in his arms again.

And love was consummated in service.—London Sun.

The British admiral reports the Spanish loss to be 350 killed, 900 wounded.

STORY OF THE FIGHT.

Spanish Soldiers No Match for American Volunteers.

New York, Aug. 10.—A cablegram from Manila Bay, Aug. 4, via Hong Kong, Aug. 9, to the Evening World, gives the following particulars of the fighting near Malate the night of July 31:

General Green's force, numbering 4,000 men, had been advancing and trenching. The arrival of the third expedition filled the Spaniards with rage, and they determined to give battle before Camp Dewey could be re-enforced. The trenches extended from the beach, 300 yards to the left flank of the insurgents. Sunday was the insurgent feast day, and their left flank withdrew, leaving the American right flank exposed. Companies A and E of the Tenth Pennsylvania and the Utah Battery were ordered to re-enforce the right flank.

In the midst of a raging typhoon, with a tremendous downpour of rain, the enemy's force, estimated at 3,000 men, attempted to surprise the camp. Our pickets were driven in and the trenches assaulted.

The brave Pennsylvania men never flinched, but stood their ground under a withering fire. The alarm spread and the First California Regiment, with two companies of the Third Artillery, who fight with rifles, were sent up to re-enforce the Pennsylvanians. The enemy were on top of the trenches when these re-enforcements arrived, and never was the discipline of the regulars better demonstrated than by the work of the Third Artillery under Captain O'Hara. Nothing could be seen but flashes of Mauser rifles. Men ran right up to the attacking Spaniards and mowed them down with regular volleys.

The Utah Battery, under Captain Young, covered itself with glory. The men pulled their guns through mud-axe deep. Two guns were sent around in flanks and poured in a destructive enfilading fire. The enemy was repulsed, and retreated in disorder. Our infantry had exhausted its ammunition and did not follow the enemy. Not an inch of ground was lost, but the scenes in the trenches was one never to be forgotten.

During flashes of lightning the dead and wounded could be seen lying in blood-red water, but neither the elements of heaven nor the destructive power of man could wring a cry of protest from the wounded. They encouraged their comrades to fight and handed over their cartridge belts.

During the night the Spanish scouts were seen carrying off the dead and wounded of the enemy.

The American dead were buried next day in the convent at Maranban. The night of Aug. 1 the fire was renewed, but the enemy had been taught a lesson and made the attack at long range with heavy artillery. The Utah battery replied, and the artillery duel lasted an hour. One man was killed. He was Fred Springstead, First Colorado, and two men were wounded.

The night of Aug. 2 the artillery duel was renewed. Two men were badly wounded and are this morning reported dead, which brings the total dead to thirteen, with ten in the hospital mortally hurt.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Secretary Alger regards the Manila fight as the beginning of the general attack on the Philippine capital.

LATE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

END IS NOW CLOSE AT HAND.

Spain Formally Accepts All Our Peace Terms.

PRESIDENT WELL SATISFIED.

Sagasta Makes Certain Representations Which Are Not Acceptable, but It Is Thought That These Are Not Insurmountable.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Spain has formally accepted the terms proposed by the United States as the basis for the negotiation for a peace treaty.

She makes certain representations, however, in regard to Cuba which are not entirely acceptable to the president, and Ambassador Cambon was so informed Tuesday.

The president is satisfied, however, with the general terms of Spain's note of acceptance, and, having been given to understand by Ambassador Cambon that the points raised by Spain would not be insurmountable obstacles, he expects Ambassador Cambon to meet Secretary Day today with full authority to finally prepare and complete a protocol embodying in formal diplomatic language the terms imposed by the United States and accepted by Spain. These terms are:

1. Spain to relinquish all claim of sovereignty over or title to the island of Cuba and to immediately evacuate the island.

2. Spain to cede to the United States the island of Porto Rico and all the islands under Spanish sovereignty in the West Indies and to immediately evacuate the same.

3. Spain to cede to the United States an island (Guam) in the Ladrones.

4. The United States to occupy and hold the city, bay and harbor of Manila pending the conclusion of a treaty of peace which shall determine the control, disposition and government of the Philippines.

5. Spain having accepted these conditions in their entirety, commissioners will be named by the United States to meet commissioners on the part of Spain for the purpose of concluding a treaty of peace on the basis above indicated.

Assurance was given by a member of the cabinet that Spain had accepted unequivocally nearly all these conditions, and that there was not likely to be a hitch in the negotiations of the protocol which will operate to suspend hostilities. According to the same authority there is no truth in the report that Spain has made as a condition of her acceptance a demand to have the Cuban debt and the question of the time and method of evacuating Cuba and Porto Rico referred to the commissioners for settlement. In connection with her note of acceptance certain arguments are made appealing for the right to withdraw her troops from Cuba and Porto Rico with all the honors of war, the troops to be allowed to retain their arms, etc. Requests are also made for the retention of certain military property.

All of these requests will receive proper consideration in framing the details of the protocol, but they in no way affect the general conditions laid down by the president.

It is not the intention at present to make public the correspondence which has passed between the two governments. Secretary Day and Ambassador Cambon will begin work upon the protocol, and this, it is expected, will be signed and made public within the next forty-eight hours. This protocol will be simply an elaboration of the general terms above given, but there will naturally be many important points to be covered.

The time and manner of the evacuation of Cuba and Porto Rico will have to be set forth and provision made for the control of affairs in the two islands pending the evacuation. There is already a perfect understanding on these points. Although one of the provisions of the present terms refers to the "immediate" evacuation of Cuba and Porto Rico, the understanding is that Spain will be allowed a reasonable time to provide means for transporting her troops, and they will be withdrawn only as fast as United States troops are ready to take their places. It will probably be a month or more before the evacuation is commenced, and it may be six months before the last Spanish soldier leaves the West Indies.

Another important matter that the protocol will have to provide for will be the manner of the occupation of Manila. Provision must be made for an armistice which will amount to a practical surrender of the Spanish forces in Manila pending the occupancy of the city by American forces. This will be one of the most troublesome problems to solve. The phrasing of the protocol may be fraught with grave dangers on account of the uncertainty as to what the attitude of the insurgents will be.

The protocol will provide for the meeting of the commissioners in Paris, as requested by Spain. The general understanding has been reached that there will be five commissioners from each side. Although the evacuation of Cuba and Porto Rico are entirely independent and outside of the jurisdiction of the commissioners, they will have a wide latitude of power, for, in addition to the work of formulating the program of the disposition of the Philippines, the work will devolve upon them of framing the final treaty of peace. There will be certain questions of detail in connection with the status of Spanish subjects in the surrendered territory and with the protection of their property.

President McKinley was in conference last night with Secretary Day and other members of the cabinet formulating the American position on the details of the protocol.

Although he believed that Spain had fully determined a fortnight ago to have peace at any price, the final presentation of her note by Ambassador Cambon, which occurred at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, was anxiously and somewhat apprehensively awaited by the president. In many respects the day at the White House was one of the most important since war was declared. Although the promulgation of the protocol will be necessary before hostilities formally cease, the receipt of Spain's note of acceptance closes the war. Orders to our military and naval commanders incidental to peace were prepared without date several days ago, and, as a result of Tuesday's conference at the White House, the machinery for putting an end to the war in all directions will be put into operation at once.

Cortes Will Meet. Bayonne, France, Aug. 10.—Dispatches received here from Madrid dated Monday announce that the form of the Spanish government's acceptance of the American peace conditions involves the proclamation of an armistice. This, it is added, must first be agreed to by the United States, and if the United States insists upon the immediate evacuation of Cuba and Porto Rico the cortes will be invoked within fifteen days. The most rigorous military censorship is exercised in Madrid. The newspapers are not allowed to refer to the plot against Mr. Sagasta's life nor to the appearance of revolutionary bands in the Castilian province.

To Pay External Debt. Madrid, Aug. 10.—The queen regent has signed a decree arranging for the payment of the external debt and authorizing the conversion of the debt and providing for an increase in the note issue of the Bank of Spain.

Will Court-Martial Toral. Madrid, Aug. 10.—The preliminary steps have been taken to court-martial Gen. Toral, who surrendered the Spanish forces in Santiago to Gen. Shafter.

Methodist Schools Unite. Portland, Ore., Aug. 10.—Arrangements have been made for the consolidation of the Portland university and the Puget Sound university at Tacoma, Wash., both schools being under the control of the Methodist Episcopal church. The location of the new institution has not yet been determined. All propositions for carrying out the consolidation are to be submitted in writing to Dr. C. H. Payne, general secretary of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church, and Bishop McCabe and a third party, chosen by them by Aug. 31, and the patronizing conferences at their annual sessions this fall.

Germany's Warning to America. Berlin, Aug. 10.—A New York World correspondent cables: The National Zeitung, which is known to stand close to the foreign office, contains a note warning America on the Samoa affair. It says if the news is confirmed that the United States intends to make the harbor of Pango-Pango a first-class naval station it will be disadvantageous to Germany, as it means a preponderance of America in Samoan affairs. The National Zeitung says it believes the foreign office is alive to the gravity of the situation.

Russia's Port in the Red Sea. London, Aug. 10.—The parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, Mr. Curzon, answering a question in the house of commons, said her majesty's government had no information in regard to the reported cession of the port of Bahila, on Ashub bay, Red sea, to Russia for use as a coaling station. Mr. Curzon added that he was not aware that Abyssinia had any power to cede that port to Russia.

Gold Seekers Drowned. Seattle, Wash., Aug. 10.—The Columbian Exploration company's steamer Jessel and her tow, the barge Minerva, were wrecked in the Kuskokwim river July 27 or the following day, and in all probability eighteen lives were added to the terrible sacrifice already made by the prospecting army.

Ships Arrive for Immunes. Savannah, Ga., Aug. 10.—The transports Leon and Minnowaska arrived here Tuesday for the immune regiments. The Third battalion of the Fifth regiment sailed on the Leona today. The Third regiment will sail on the Minnowaska probably Friday.

Ex-Banker Out of Prison. Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 10.—Theodore P. Haughey, ex-president of the Indianapolis national bank, was released from the prison here Tuesday, after serving his six years' sentence. He left for his home, accompanied by his son Edward.

Merritt's Transports Catch Up. San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 10.—A special in the Call from Cavite, dated Aug. 6, says: "The three transports which sailed from San Francisco with Gen. Merritt, but which were delayed at Honolulu, reached here today. The monitor Monterey also arrived."

FIGHTING IN PORTO RICO.

Gen. Ernst's Brigade Takes the Town of Coamo.

BATTLE LASTS HALF AN HOUR.

Spanish Losses Are Unknown—Six of Our Men Wounded, One Seriously—Report That Admiral Dewey Is to Be Strongly Re-enforced.

Ponce, Aug. 10, via St. Croix.—The town of Coamo was captured Tuesday morning after a fight.

Gen. Ernst's brigade was ordered to move at daylight. The main body went along the military road, while Col. Biddle of Gen. Wilson's staff, with the Sixteenth Pennsylvania, made a detour to enter the town from the north.

They met the Spanish forces outside the town and a fight took place, which lasted half an hour. The fire was hot. The Spanish in the trenches were driven out.

The Spanish losses are unknown. Our loss was six wounded, one seriously. The names of the wounded are not yet known.

WILL CARRY WAR TO SPAIN.

Sampson to Command Fleet and Watson to Re-enforce Dewey.

Washington, Aug. 10.—It has been pretty definitely settled, if not entirely so, that several big ships will go to Manila to re-enforce Admiral Dewey and to allow the withdrawal of some of the vessels of his command, which are very much in need of docking.

The understanding is that some ships will go to the Philippines by way of the Suez canal, no matter what is the outcome of the peace situation, but a larger naval force will proceed to Spain to destroy Camara's fleet if the Spanish answer necessitates a severance of the present dealings with the Madrid ministry through the medium of the French ambassador.

It is intended to maintain commander Watson's Eastern squadron as it is now composed. This is the force that will join Dewey in front of Manila, if peace commissioners are appointed, to remain there pending a settlement of the disposition of the Philippine question.

Information that came out Tuesday confirms the understanding that Admiral Sampson will command the fleet that will undoubtedly be sent out to remove the last vestige of Spanish naval strength from the seas if active hostilities are resumed. The purpose of the government to hold on to the Philippines is indicated in the decision to augment Dewey with Watson's squadron in any contingency.

WASHINGTON HEARS OF THE FIGHT

Astoria, Aug. 10.—At 9 o'clock this morning the Spanish war situation promised to unfold many interesting scenes during the day.

Press dispatches via Hong Kong told of the battle between American soldiers and Spanish land forces at Manila and an American victory. The news of a battle was not a surprise, but officials were astonished to learn that Aguinaldo, the bespangled and self-proclaimed ruler, and his native forces had remained neutral. This is the first plain intimation from the chief insurgent that in the present warfare in the Philippines Aguinaldo considers himself entirely independent of the belligerents.

At 9 o'clock the departments were quiet, and if official dispatches had been received they were kept secret. It was considered altogether probable that the official news from Gen. Merritt and Admiral Dewey was brought to Hong Kong on the same boat which carried the press dispatches and would be deciphered and given out later, probably after the cabinet had passed upon it.

Six Thousand Spaniards Surrender.

Guantanamo, Aug. 8, via Santiago, Aug. 10.—The final arrangements for the surrender of Guantanamo were completed today, when the Spanish regulars under Gen. Parejo were ordered to withdraw from the blockhouses along the trocha and deliver over their arms to Brig.-Gen. Ewers, the military governor of the town. The trenches at Calmanera and the blockhouses along the railway were evacuated by the Spaniards quietly. When all the details are gathered in more than 6,000 regular troops will formally surrender their arms and equipment in accordance with Gen. Toral's agreement.

May Retire Sternberg.

Washington, Aug. 10.—A report growing out of the controversy between Gen. Shafter and Surg.-Gen. Sternberg has it that the secretary of war contemplates displacing Gen. Sternberg. The secretary, in an interview, places the responsibility for the troubles at Santiago upon the medical department.

Admiral Kirkland Very Ill.

Vallejo, Cal., Aug. 10.—Rear-Admiral Kirkland is more seriously ill than he or even the doctors expected. He has but one chance to live, and that depends on the success of the surgical operation performed Tuesday.

Stop that cough. Take warning. It may lead to consumption. A 50c bottle of Shilch's cure may save your life. For sale by People's Drug Co.

Insurgents Not Satisfied. Washington, Aug. 10.—Cuban insurgents may keep on fighting despite an armistice unless Gens. Gomez and Garcia are admitted into the negotiations and allowed to sign the agreement for a suspension of hostilities.

Governor Briggs Is Dead. Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 10.—Governor F. A. Briggs of North Dakota died on Tuesday of consumption. J. M. Devine is lieutenant governor.

More Fall Shoes Have Arrived.

The best Shoe builders in the United States have been called upon for our stock this season. Dressy people like to be foremost in foot styles and therefore make early fall purchases.

For these folks and all early fall buyers we are preparing every day a great ovation in pretty footwear. You can be the first to wear the correct styles for fall if you wish to purchase now.

Our Summer Tans Must Move.

The incoming of our fall stock makes it a necessity to push out all summer tans—men's and women's, boys' and misses—as hurriedly as possible. Our shelf room is already crowded to its utmost capacity. We are making prices that will move summer goods, and each sale is a surprise party to the purchaser. You will find it so if you try us.

Good Shoes.

Cost more than poor ones. Sometimes the Shoe you pay the most for costs the least. It depends on where you buy them. Cheap folks ask less for cheap Shoes than we ask for good ones, but theirs cost the most in the long run. We have placed all broken sizes in Oxfords on our bargain table and marked them, choice, 98c. All broken sizes of Ladies' Shoes are heaped together on a table, marked $1.89.
